

Sales Support Engineer

North Building Technologies Ltd is recruiting a Brighton-based Sales Support Engineer to provide pre-sales support on our range of products.

About North

North is an independent company based in Brighton with customers in the UK, mainland Europe, and around the globe. We make control products for buildings that improve building performance and simplify building management.

Your role

Candidates must have excellent people skills, the ability to work independently and in a team, and be self-motivated.

After training in our product range, you will initially support customers using our product. This requires email and telephone skills, along with remote and on-site product configuration.

This will develop into pre-sales assistance, including attending meetings, advising customers, generating quotations, and managing customer relationships.

Skills you'll need

- Enthusiastic and self-motivated
- Excellent people and written communication skills
- Good technical knowledge
- Good organisational ability
- Microsoft Office proficiency
- National Level 3 qualifications (A-Level equivalent)
- A full UK driving licence

What we offer

Work as part of a small dynamic team, with great training opportunities to develop your career in engineering.

You'll receive a competitive salary package including on-target bonus, pension plan, and 20 days annual holiday (plus bank holidays).

How to apply

Drop us a line at jobs@northbt.com, including your CV and a covering letter.

There is no deadline. We will be keeping applications open until we find the right candidate.